

The Competition Authority

The Competition Authority occasionally retains external consultants to assist it in its information gathering and analytical work. Selection of such consultants usually follows a competitive selection process. In order to ensure that its selection process is open and efficient, the Authority now wishes to create an internal register of individuals and companies supplying consulting services and who wish to be considered for future Authority projects.

Consultants with experience in any area that may be relevant to the work of the Authority may register their interest by supplying to the Authority the name and address of the business, details of the contact person(s), telephone numbers, e-mail address, areas of expertise and a brief summary of previous work.

Information about the Authority and the type of work that it carries out is available on its website at www.tca.ie. Placement on the Authority's internal register does not guarantee invitations to tender nor will the internal register be exhaustive.
